Yoga is essentially an art and science of holistic living; an effective method for improving health in addition to the prevention and management of diseases. Yoga reduces stress through reducing sympathetic activity and improves the sense of general well-being.

The institution provides separate facility and encourages girl students to participate on a regular basis and recognize the holistic effects of practicing yoga through surya namaskarams, meditation and asanas. During this ongoing corona virus pandemic, when we are all bound to live a restricted life confined at home, it is natural for anyone to develop anxiety of infection risk, So in order to mentally boost the students, the institution organised one week yoga classes for all the girl student virtual mode.

In order to inculcate this passion RBVRRWCP also celebrates International Yoga day in collaboration with Bhartiya Yog Sansthan, New Delhi every year on June 21st. All the students, staff members are allowed to participate in the session.
